STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1892.

NO. 20

DANVILLE.

—Jo Thurman, of this place, and Mr. Gregory, of Anderson county, have invented a machine for elevating and weighing distilled spirits.

—The question of a bank at Perryville is still in agitation and the probabilities are that one will soon be established on a sound basis, in that historic village.

—Mrs. M. J. Durham, of Lexington, is in town, the guest of Mrs. S. J. Harlan. Senator Breckinridge returned to Frankfort Tuesday, leaving Mrs. B., who has been very ill, much better.

—Miss Nannie McDowell is visiting the family of Mr. McElroy, her uncle, at Kansas City, Mo. Misses Nevell and Wilson, of Caldwell College, the ladies who were so painfully hurt last week, are recovering fast and will soon be out again. Rev. F. G. Cheek, of Paris, is visiting relatives in Danville.

—The Danville Theological Seminary closed Wednesday until Sept. 8th. The graduates are Messrs. G. E. Moore, of Boyle county, Ky., and T. E. Kerr, of Frankfort, Ohio. Directors and other officials present were Messrs. Condit, Ashland; Weller, Lebanon; Read, Columbia; Lapsley, Greensburg; Hamilton, Humphrey, Louisville; Fulton, Lexington; Maxwell, Lebanon; Wiseman, Danville; Willoughby, Tennessee.

—Three months and 20 days ago a fine yearling jack belonging to Richard Cobb, of this county, was kicked on one of his fore legs by a horse. The hurt was so painful that the jack laid down and laid so long that he forgot how to try to get up and stand on his feet. Twenty days ago George S. Sandifer, the farrier of Danville, began to bandage the animal's fore legs according to a system invented by himself, urging him gradually to stand on his feet. To-day, Wednesday, he rose to his feet for the first time and after some preliminary scoring walked a mile to a pasture, where he is now eating grass.

—Miss Mary Welsh, daughter of Mr. G. W. Welsh, of the Farmers National Bank, this place, and Mr. Louis Rue, also of Danville, were married at 7 A. M., Tuesday morning, at the Commercial Hotel, Harrodsburg, by Rev. J. A. O. Vaught, of the Methodist church. It was thought Miss Welsh was going to Cincinnati to visit a young lady friend, when she left home, but when the train reached Burgin a cousin of Mr. Rue, Mr. Ed Curry, came into the car where she was, and after a few words of commonplace conversation, she stepped out on the platform with him. Mr. Rue was near at hand with a horse and buggy. She was assisted into the buggy and the two drove rapidly to Harrodsburg, arriving there only about ten minutes later than several friends who came from Burgin by rail. When the young people reached the hotel the license, minister and friends were already there and the ceremony was performed without delay. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Rue went to Cincinnati, where they will remain a few days before returning to Danville.

SEED POTATOES.—A writer says in the Stockman: "I have never seen a good crop of potatoes raised from cut seed. I once planted two barrels of Queen of the Valley potatoes. They were large tubers cut perhaps on an average in four pieces, one piece to the hill. As a result, not more than I came up, and many that did come up were weak, puny things, while right beside them in potatoes from whole seed scarcely a skip hill was noticeable. This last year I planted a small plot with cut seed; the tubers before being cut were about as large as turkey eggs. They were cut once through and planted one piece to the hill. They came up well and apparently did well. I dug two rows in the same lot side by side that I put in whole tubers. These two rows (although I did not measure them exactly) I should judge averaged a fifth more potatoes and of a better size than those planted with cut seed. The soil was a slate loam."

A well known business man referring to the success of his firm said: "We attend to our own business and nothing else. You never hear of any of us being on the road nor out driving. We do not go to the theatre. We have no outside business—no ventures or speculations in oils, wild lands, patents or stocks. What money we have we have put into our house. We take care of our business and our business takes care of us. We keep abreast of the time."

Specimens of the smallest known species of hogs are now quartered at the London Zoological Gardens. They came from the southern part of Australia and are known as "the pigmy hogs of the antipodes." They are well formed frisky, and are about the size of a muskrat. They are not to be confounded with guinea pigs, which are a species of rodent.

Mrs. Boggs—Yes, I am a widow for the second time in my life. Miss Jag—And will you marry again? Mrs. Boggs—Well, I'm considering whether it would be wise for me to be so foolish.—Birmingham Leader.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Albert Harlan, a colored man, has been granted a pension.

—Miss Hallie Herring entertained her young friends Monday evening.

—The juvenile club gave an enjoyable picnic in Bland's woods Monday.

—An attempt was made Monday night to break open the safe at S. T. Leavelle's coal yard, but the burglars made a failure.

—Rev. Hill delivered an able and interesting discourse on temperance at the Methodist church on Sunday evening. He is a pleasing speaker and his remarks were highly appreciated by his audience.

—Master Commissioner Burnside has advertised for sale the store-room occupied by Mr. R. E. McRoberts and three vacant lots where the opera house block burned. The sale will be made next county court day.

—The handsome country residence of Mr. James N. Denny, near Hyattsville, was entirely consumed by fire, Tuesday afternoon. As none of the family were at home at the time only a small portion of the contents were saved. The house and furniture were insured for $6,000. A defective flue was the cause.

—The democrats of this county met at R. H. Tomlinson's law office, Monday night, and organized a club, which was named in honor of Hon. R. H. Tomlinson. Hugh Logan was elected president, J. L. Anderson and Jake Joseph, vice presidents, R. E. Hughes secretary, Geo. D. Robinson, treas. The directors are C. G. Wherritt, Eb. Lawson, J. Brad Jennings, W. O. Owsley. Mr. R. E. Hughes was selected as a delegate to the State convention at Louisville.

—The Legislature attended the races at Lexington on Saturday last. This was a move in the right direction and a move is always better than a stand-still. A race-track is an excellent place to learn something about speed and if the lessons learned by our law-makers during their visit to Lexington should be the means of expediting their movements in getting into working order the provisions of the new constitution, their trip will not have been in vain.

—Rev. Amos Stout left this week for Atlanta to attend the Southern Baptist Convention. Mrs. Herring and daughter, Hallie, are visiting in Louisville. Mrs. Benton has returned from a visit in Missouri. Miss Sallie Palmer has returned from a visit to Crab Orchard. Miss Mamie Henry, of Crab Orchard, spent Sunday with her parents. R. L. Elkin, of Louisville, is in town. Sam Evans has returned from Florida. Drs. J. B. Kinnaird and H. C. Herring are in Louisville attending the State Medical Society.

HUBBLE.

—The carpenters have Mr. Dunbar's house in progress now.

—Sam Engleman is the big fisherman so far, as he caught a jumper on a hook a few days ago 17 inches long.

—James Robinson lost a very valuable yearling colt last week; supposed it jumped the fence and broke its neck.

—Twenty two cents is the best bid on wool so far and most of it in this locality will be received here in a few days.

—Spencer Hubble is having his house re-painted. John K. Faulkner, Jr., has returned to Tyrone, to take his place in a still house.

—Mr. Jess Swope, Sr., and Mrs. Lilly Shipp and son have returned to their homes in Indiana, after a few weeks' visit among us. Joe Rice is at home from school in Frankfort for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Goodnight called on Mr. and Mrs. Col. Rice a few days ago, on their way from Frankfort to visit Mrs. Dwight Root, who has been ill for a few days, but is improving. Wm. Hubble is able to be out of his room again.

—Mr. and Mrs. Aaron S. Ball returned from their bridal tour Tuesday morning, looking fresh as ever. On that night a crowd of masked men marched up from toward Danville and gave them hearty congratulations. Some had drums, rattle traps, sleigh bells, saw blades and every other conceivable instrument for making a noise. There was not a pebble or a stick in the yard that did not turn over; there was not a splinter about the house or yard fence that did not echo the glad reception by thundering tones that seemed to shake the earth around. All the boys seemed to be sober and not disposed to damage anything about the place. It lasted from 10 to 12, but the boys got no hearing from the happy couple, save a refusal to open up or treat. If it could be found out who the boys were, the women of the community would sue them for damage done the coming chicken and turkey crop, by shaking the eggs in the community so that none will hatch. I doubt very much if garden seeds sprout good, after such a terrible shaking up.

—At Cleveland, Ohio, John Anderson, claimed as husband by 121 women, is on trial for bigamy.

—Tulla Blackburn again beat Corrigan's Ethel. She won the Straus Handicap, one mile, in 1:42.

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—The water works in the Catching building is now in operation.

—Joe Johnson is building a new house in the Johnson addition to London.

—Matt Steele and E. Morgan are placing a saw mill on the George McKee property.

—Pleas Gregory, living a few miles out of town, had the misfortune to lose a week-old baby Wednesday night.

—The date of the democratic meeting is May 14th instead of the 11th. The mistake occurred in reading the original call.

—The pensioners were in town Wednesday in full force to receive their pay and business was brisk among the merchants.

—Ed Hackney and Gran Brown have gone to Ely's, on the Cumberland River, to catch a "mess" of fish.

—The Eureka Manufacturing Company have closed out business at this point and will move their planing mill to Dillon's Switch.

—A druggist here was telling me that he bought some well recommended insect powder last summer and the ants eat it up before he sold it.

—Lewis D. Sampson, the Barbourville editor has been with us again. This is his old home and he has a splendid subscription list among his many friends in Laurel.

—The miners at Pittsburgh, East Bernstadt and Altamont are all on a strike on account of the operators desiring to cut down the price of coal and consequently the miners' wages.

—Last Sunday a traveling preacher named Paul Bagley, claiming to be from Mabelvale, Ark., preached two sermons on the streets and the curiosity of the thing caught several sinners as listeners, who couldn't have been reached in any other way. His sermons were very learned and he left London with $3.40 more than he came in town with.

—All who know Ed Canifax and his wit under certain conditions can appreciate the following: Ed is a painter and is continually going from point to point. Ed was doing a little painting in red and was going down the street with a grip in his hand when a fellow painter across the street asked him what house he was traveling for. Ed's retort was quick that he was "traveling for a boarding house."

—Prof. T. A. Hays, of Berne City, Indiana, and Miss Norah Lovelace, were married at the home of the bride's brother, S. A. Lovelace, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock. The wedding was a very quiet affair, but few of the immediate relatives of the bride being present. The happy couple will make their home in Indiana and carry with them the best wishes of the writer and everybody else for the joy and happiness that those only know who have enjoyed true love without the experience of that old adage that "true love never runs smoothly."

—Five prisoners, led by the notorious Craig Gragg, escaped from the London jail Monday night by prizing out a cross bar of the cage. The following are the names of the parties: Craig Gragg, for robbing the Pittsburgh depot; Enoch Boone, seducing a girl under 16; Wm. Osby, carrying a pistol; John Parrot and Larkin Cress for selling liquor. Cy Ping, in for selling liquor, got out at the same holes Tuesday night while Jailor Lovell was out hunting the other prisoners. They had smuggled in a crow-bar about 5 1/2 feet long with which they did their work and which they took with them. Craig Gragg is as hard to catch and harder to hold than a flea.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Parker Thompson, a stock trader and preacher, in Madison county, stole Arch McGuire's wife and $500 and skipped.

—Hamilton A. Bee, living at Dahlgren, Ga., aged 87, has petitioned for a divorce from his wife, Sarah, whose age is 82. He alleges as a reason for his application that Sarah does not love him as in the days of "auld lang syne."

It is unaccountable that a man should take mustard suppers, drink beer, smoke rank cigars, tell strong anecdotes and then imagine some nice little woman likes to kiss him.

The rain falls upon the just, but not upon the unjust, who has stolen the umbrella of the former.

—Gov. Brown, Wednesday, sent to the Senate the nomination of Mr. C. J. Norwood for another term as State Mine Inspector.

—Mr. M. Borntraeger, a conservative and successful newspaper man, president of the Louisville Anzeiger Company, died Wednesday morning, aged 64 years.

SAM J. ROBERTS

The above is a good picture of one of the most ambitious and enterprising editors in Kentucky. Entering the business as a country correspondent, he has for the last 15 years filled all the positions and gone all the gaits, till he is now editor-in-chief of the largest and most influential republican daily paper in Kentucky. A little over four years ago he came to Lexington from Ohio and established the Leader. He was told that a republican daily paper could not succeed anywhere in Kentucky, much less at the Blue Grass capital, but nothing daunted, he went to work and his success has been phenomenal. Starting out on a small scale, he devoted his entire energy to collecting and printing the news, and the Leader soon became recognized as a newspaper. Increasing in size as it increased in wealth and influence, it has grown to the dimensions of a metropolitan publication, last Sunday's issue being 16 pages of bright and entertaining matter. The paper is four years old now and is shortly to be printed on its own perfecting press in a magnificent building owned by it and the Stock Farm.

Mr. Roberts is a whole-souled, genial gentleman, a favorite with the members of his profession, as well as with all who know him, and possessed of youth, a lovely young wife and a splendid newspaper property, he ought to be and doubtless is a very happy man. There is absolutely nothing mean about him except his politics and as he never obtrudes his views on that subject in private intercourse, one would never suspect him guilty of being the rantankerous, roaring and red-hot republican he shows himself when he thinks the occasion demands it.

Judge Durham's Action Sustained by His Republican Successor.

H. A. Sommers sends this from Washington to his paper, the Elizabethtown News:

"That chickens will come home to roost was very conclusively demonstrated in a political sense one day last week by a little episode in the treasury department. It is a well known fact that Judge Milton Durham was turned out of his position as controller of the treasury by the present administration because he refused to allow the accounts of John I. Davenport, election inspector for New York, after President Harrison had approved them. Mr. Matthews, his successor, did what Judge Durham refused to do. Last week John I. Davenport appeared before Controller Matthews with his expense account for supervision of the Congressional elections in New York in 1890—identically the same kind of accounts that Judge Durham refused to approve two years before. Controller Matthews told Mr. Davenport that he could not certify to such an account. Mr. Davenport then went to the president, got his approval of the account and returned to the treasury with it. Controller Matthews still declined to approve, putting himself exactly in the same position that had cost Judge Durham his official scalp. As the action of the controller in such matters is final, Davenport would have been several thousand dollars short but for the fact that Matthews' old decision was found given when he succeeded Judge Durham, and when confronted with that document he had to give in. His action sustained the justice of Judge Durham's position."

WANDERINGS OF A DERELICT.

Remarkable Drifting of a Schooner That Was Abandoned a Year Ago.

The wanderings on the north Atlantic ocean of the Philadelphia schooner Wyer G. Sargent, which was abandoned March 31, 1891, 200 miles east of Cape Hatteras, as marked out on the pilot chart issued by the hydrographic office, has attracted considerable attention in shipping circles. Buffeted, as the Sargent has been for twelve months, by the fierce storms that have swept the Atlantic of late, the fact that she has withstood them all and still drifts around at the will of the elements is considered remarkable by seafaring men.

When Captain Danse and his crew abandoned the Wyer G. Sargent on the night of March 31 they did not think she would float until the next morning, her condition was so serious. Her hatches had been washed off, the water was pouring into her hold, the main and foremast were gone and hanging alongside of the wreck and the vessel was waterlogged. The crew was landed at Nuevitas and nothing was heard from the vessel until May 4, when a passing vessel sighted her some 300 miles to the eastward of the position where she was abandoned. She was then in the same condition as when the crew left her, the seas sweeping over her deeply submerged hull.

The next report of the derelict was gotten here in July, when a vessel that arrived from Europe reported passing her on July 2 in latitude of 40 degs., and longitude about 57 degs., which would place her just 1,200 miles east of Philadelphia. She was then drifting an easterly course, which would have brought her upon the coast of Portugal. Aug. 3 she was again sighted, and by this time she had drifted in a southeasterly direction to the latitude of about 38 degs., longitude 40 degs. According to reports received from time to time by vessels who passed the derelict on their way across the Atlantic it was learned that she pursued a zigzag course, until Sept. 14, when she struck off in the direction of the Canary islands. She held this course until Oct. 30, when she went off again in a southwesterly direction for the north coast of South America.

Nov. 23 she was headed around by the winds and currents due west, and made about 500 miles in this direction when she came around north to latitude 34 degs., longitude 40 degs., where she was sighted by the British steamship W. I. Radcliffe. She was at that time, according to the captain of this steamship's statement, in a remarkable state of preservation, but lay deep in the water, with every roll of the sea going over her. Her bowsprit and part of her jib boom were standing, as was also about six feet of the mainmast.

Since this time nothing has been heard of the wandering derelict, and the hydrographers are keeping a watchful eye over all the ships' logs turned in for inspection with hopes of getting still more information regarding this interesting vessel.

There are numerous other derelicts adrift in the western ocean at this time, but none have withstood the storms as long as the Sargent, and shipping men say she must be a vessel of wonderful construction. She was laden, it is said, with a light cargo.—Philadelphia Press.

The Wounded in the Next War.

German statisticians have been figuring upon the probable effect of the newest weapons in the next war. In 1870 the proportion of soldiers wounded on the German side was 14.98 per cent. of the total number in the field. Only 2.2 per cent. were actually killed. Since then an immense improvement has been effected in arms of precision, and it is believed that in future engagements the proportion of wounded will be greater than heretofore, but that the wounds will be less severe, as bullets, owing to their small size and high velocity will often pass through bones without splintering them.

It is estimated that about 20 per cent. of the troops will be wounded in the next campaign, and that a little more than 3 per cent. will be killed. That is to say that in an army corps of 35,000 men, 1,200 will be killed and 5,800 wounded. About one-third of the wounded, it is thought, are likely to be serious. Intending combatants are welcome to all the consolation contained in these scientific predictions.—New York Post.

Tame Moose on a Farm.

About a year ago a Frenchman named Burgoine, who lived on a farm on the east branch of the Penobscot, found two baby moose wandering helpless in the woods and took them home. He nursed them tenderly and taught them various tricks, and they thrived and became very tame. The young moose were exhibited at the Bangor fair, and since then they have lived contentedly with the cattle on the farm. Sometimes they go into the woods in quest of certain delicacies of the forest and are away for days at a time, but then always come back to the farm. Every hunter on the east branch knows the young moose by sight and no one ever thinks of shooting at them.—New York Sun.

A Prize Fish Story.

The fish story teller will have to hump himself if he expects to excel the following story: Fred March, of Idlewild, N. Y., skated into an air hole on Lake Keuka. As he plunged into the icy water he struck a large pickerel which was at the surface. The fish pursued the sinking lad and fastened its needle-like teeth into his left ear. The pickerel clung to the boy's ear until he arose to the surface. As March's companion seized him to pull him from the water it released the ear and disappeared. The boy's ear was badly lacerated.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Wealthy Kleptomaniac.

A short time ago, according to a jeweler, a wealthy woman bought a diamond brooch at his store, and tiring of it after a few months' wear, sent it back to be worked into a different shape. One diamond was to remain over and be returned loose with the brooch. The woman's orders were carried out, and diamond and brooch, securely wrapped, given into her hands by a trustworthy employee. Hardly had the man returned from the errand, when the woman telephoned that the loose diamond was missing. The jeweler was dumfounded. The messenger declared he had given the package to the woman just as he had received it from the jeweler. His employer believed him, but he could not bring himself to suspect the woman. He thought she might have dropped the stone while unwrapping the parcel, and suggested that explanation. But the woman was positive that no diamond was in the parcel when she received it.

There was only one thing to do, and that was to make up the loss. This the jeweler did, but his suspicions were now aroused and he determined to be watchful. It was not a great while before the woman came to the store with another piece of work. She had a diamond which she was going to send down to be set in a breastpin. In a few days the diamond came, and judge of the jeweler's surprise when he recognized by a peculiar flaw, the very diamond he had returned with the brooch. The jeweler's course was quickly taken. He simply kept the diamond. The woman has tacitly acknowledged her guilt, for, though this happened several years ago, she has never had the courage to claim it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Historic Communion Cup.

An interesting relic connected with the ecclesiastical history of the state has been recovered within a few days in the town of Lyme. It is a pewter communion cup, bearing date of 1637. It was brought to this country two centuries ago by the Pilgrim family which settled in New London county. For nearly fifty years this curious relic has been lost sight of, the descendants of its original owners not knowing of its whereabouts. In 1840 it was in the possession of Thomas Pilgrim, who was at that time eighty-seven years of age and a pensioner of the Revolutionary war. Thomas Pilgrim entered the service in 1776 for three years in one of the Connecticut regiments and was also one of the volunteers for the defense of New London in the war of 1812.

One of the last of this old pensioner's descendants in the male line, James Pilgrim, died in Hartford in 1883. He was a man of marked inventive genius. Two daughters survive him, one of whom, Frances Ella Pilgrim, was the originator of the idea of displaying the national flag in the school rooms and buildings throughout the state. She is a graduate in the state normal school and a teacher in Stoughton. The family will endeavor to regain possession of the ancient relic that has just been found in Lyme.—New London (Conn.) Telegraph.

A Lady's Experience.

A lady recently was heard to relate an experience, the moral of which should sound a warning. She was an excellent customer at a leading store, and whenever she entered it her attention was called to this or that by the floor walker, and seldom without good results. One day she approached this man and asked for some tribute in behalf of one of the city's worthiest charitable objects in which she was much interested. Her appeal was received coldly. The man demurred at the frequency of such requests, and finally, most reluctantly and ungraciously gave her fifty Japanese napkins. The lady went away chagrined at the changed manner of her formerly affable, not to say gallant, tradesman.

Upon reflection she concluded to take her patronage elsewhere. She has since declined to solicit contributions for any cause whatever, but she gives of her own time and means liberally. When asked to do anything in the way of charity begging she tells the above story, and the store and its representative are getting quite generally advertised, but scarcely in the way most desired by shrewd men of business.—Toronto Empire.

The Highest of All Chimneys.

Within 130 working days, barring any untoward act of providence, the highest chimney in America will form the most notable object on the Denver landscape. On Saturday the Omaha and Grant Smelting company let a contract to Mr. Scanlon to erect a chimney at the works on Forty-first and Delgany streets 350 feet high. At this time the highest in America is that of the Clark thread mills in New Jersey, 335 feet. There is one at Freiburg, Germany, 460 feet high, but it is only twelve feet in the clear, while that of the smelting company will be sixteen feet in the clear. The height of the one now in use here is 165 feet.—Denver Republican.

A Curious Custom.

In a church on one of the Danish islands it was the custom of the men on walking up to the altar and coming back again to bow at a certain spot to the women sitting on one side of the aisle. No one could tell why. Last year it so happened that a layer of plaster was removed from the wall on the women's side and a picture of the Virgin Mary was brought to light, which had evidently been the original cause of that reverential custom—a custom which was continued for a period of 400 years, long after its significance had been forgotten.—Vestislevs Tidende.

A Thief's Religious Compunctions.

The thief who returned the communion service he stole from a New York church, but kept the money he took at the same time, recalls the tale of the two fishermen, who, finding bread and meat in the portmanteau of a man they had murdered, ate the bread and threw away the meat—because it was Friday. The advantages of a religious instinct are thus made manifest in unexpected ways.—Kansas City Star.

A SONG AT EVENING.

Years have passed since I knew thee and proved thee,
O Solitude, wisest and best—
Since the tears of my first passion moved thee
To sing to my spirit of rest.
Years have passed; I have wandered forsaking Thy temple and teachings, and taking
No thought of thee. Then hast been making
For me loving quest.

I return to thee now, I am weary,
The throng will not miss me, nor I Find thy innermost dim court a dreary Retreat; let the pageant pass by.
And slowly he comes that went springing,
And dolefully he that went singing,
No laurel leaf holding, and bringing
No hope but to die.

Oh, tenderly draw me and fold me
In raiment of thine pure and sweet,
Let thine arms as in other days hold me
In peaceful dreams at thy feet.
Let there be no more bitter heart aching;
Let me sleep and forget envenoming
Desire and the hope ever failing—
The draft incomplete.

A Plucky Premier Danseuse.

Gillert, the premiere danseuse brought over first by the late American Opera company, and who afterward danced at the Metropolitan opera house, had her leg broken three times. The first time was when a girl at the Conservatory in Russia. She was to dance with the other girls before the emperor, and on her way to the Conservatory fell and broke her leg. The calamity was the greater from the fact that her proficiency made it almost certain that the emperor would notice her and her career be made. She was sent instead to the hospital, where she remained many weary months. On her recovery she went to Paris, and in time got an engagement. She was scarcely launched when she tripped on the stage and snapped another bone.

While yet under treatment domestic reasons made it imperative that she should earn money, and she went from her bed and crutches back onto the stage. A third luckless break occurred, but Gillert is still up and at it. Her success, in fact, lies not in the grace and poetry of her dancing, but in her ability to do all the impossible things of the ballet. To this, it is believed, the extraordinarily brittle quality of her legs may in some way contribute.—Exchange.

Women's Clubs Increasing Rapidly.

The Federation of Women's clubs is constantly growing. At a recent meeting of its board of control twenty new clubs were admitted. Among these was the Wintergreen club, of Boston, so called from the fact that no woman under fifty years of age is eligible for membership. Mrs. Kate Tannatt Woods and Mrs. M. J. Livermore belong to this club, with other equally brilliant women. The Cleveland Sorosis, a Memphis club, and the Thought and Work club, of Salem, Mass., were also admitted to the federation, together with a club in the island of Ceylon.

This club is the direct outgrowth of the Bombay Sorosis. When the Ceylon women found that their Indian sisters could have their club one was started among themselves, and the fact of its recognition by the federation proves its successful establishment.

The federation does not admit nor recognize classes for study as clubs. Many such, with club titles, exist, but are not a link in this great chain of sisterhood which is banding the earth.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

A Woman's Clubhouse.

The home of the New Century Woman's club, of Philadelphia, which was opened early last January, is striking in its appearance. It is on Twelfth street, below Chestnut, a central part of the city. The work as far as possible has been done entirely by women. The "Pressman" was admitted in the shape of the builders, but the house was designed by Mrs. Townsend, and the architect was Mrs. Minerva Parker Nichols. Every detail has been under the supervision of the committees appointed, who have attended to the heating, the lighting, the ventilating and the furnishing. It is built of Pompeian brick and terra cotta, with very little ornamentation. On the third floor are ladies' dressing rooms, fitted with folding beds for the use of out of town members. The kitchens are on the fourth story, and from them a dumbwaiter runs to each of the floors below.

The cost of the house, including the ground, building and furnishing, will be about $80,000.—Louis Stockton in Homemaker.

Newspapers as Good as Ice.

In freezing ice cream, when the ice is scarce, pack the freezer with three-quarters full of ice and salt and finish with newspapers, and the difference in the time of freezing and quality of the cream is not perceptible from the result where the freezer is packed full of ice. After removing the dasher it is better to cork up the cream and cover it tightly with a packing of newspapers than to use more ice. The newspaper retains the cold already in the ice better than a packing of cracked ice and salt, which must have crevices to admit the air.—Practical Confectioner.

A Novel Entertainment.

A very novel feature was introduced at an entertainment given recently by Mrs. Astor. It consisted of the turning loose of a lot of automatic toys, tiny alligators, papier mache roosters, tin toads and other animals, which were wound up and then set going by the gentlemen of the party. Each man closely followed the progress of the animal which he had wound up, and selected as his partner the young woman before which it paused.—New York Letter.

A Queen's Necklace.

Queen Margherita of Italy can always be recognized by her necklace of numerous rows of pearls. From year to year the ornament grows more costly, as the king participates in his wife's love for jewels and adds a new string every year, so that now the chains hang as far as the waist, rather spoiling its appearance as a graceful ornament. She can also be easily recognized by the ringlets she wears on her forehead.—San Francisco Argonaut.

W. P. WALTON.

THE PEOPLE'S CHOICE.

The thin-skinned, shallow-pated majority in the Legislature, which is posing as reformers and economists, continues to make a roaring, ring tailed, blooming ass of itself. It spent a day fulminating thunderbolts against the Louisville Times and its helpless correspondent, because the paper compared the men who voted for the Carroll amendment to tax private corporations like other business enterprises, with those who did not, and showed the latter up in their true light. After a great deal of talk, in which newspapers were denounced for everything in sight, and charged with being the tools of corporations, a committee to investigate the matter was appointed, which is to say whether the Times will be in future denied the privileges heretofore accorded. This action shows that the majority in the House is composed of even smaller men than was supposed and settles the belief that nothing good can come out of such an aggregation of mediocre mutton-heads.

In another column of this issue Gov. James B. McCreary is formally announced as a candidate to succeed himself in Congress from the 8th district. By his strict attention to business and a watchful care for the interests of his constituents, Gov. McCreary has made himself indispensable and he will as usual be accorded a walk-over by his own party and only be nominally opposed by the republicans. The 8th district was never better represented than it is at present and our people recognizing the fact, will keep Gov. McCreary in Congress as long as he will serve them.

The report of the auditor to the Legislature shows that the incidental expenses of the public officers at Frankfort for the two years ending March 1 was $60,900.55. Over $6,000 of this was for the executive mansion and goes to show that for once Tom Pettit is right in wanting to increase the governor's salary and let him pay his own expenses. The whole thing ought to be looked into and improved. The traveling expenses of some of the officers, who have heretofore and may now ride on free passes, are about as much as their salaries.

Mr. WATTERSON, who never did like Cleveland, and who has reason to feel the snub Gov. Hill gave him, is getting in his work on both of them and settling old scores, to his own satisfaction at least. He continues to assert that it would be suicide to nominate either for the presidency and that everybody who can't see it that way are worse than fools. Mr. Watterson should leave Washington and come home. The climate and surroundings there do not agree with his digestion.

TOMTIT PETTIT has at last kicked clean out of the democratic traces by accepting the people's party nomination for Congress in the Owensboro district. This is not a matter of much importance as he stands no chance of election, but is merely mentioned to show how base an ingrate a man can be. The little cuss owes his all to the democratic party and when it had warmed him into full life he does the serpent act with not even a show of conscience.

The Cincinnati Enquirer publishes a cock and bull story from Washington to the effect that Senator Vilas, Don Dickinson and others have prevailed on Mr. Cleveland to withdraw his name from presidential possibilities in favor of Chief Justice Fuller, who is an Eastern man by birth and a Western man by residence and association. The story is a pretty one, but by no means a plausible one.

The Daily Covington Commonwealth, which has heretofore been the sole property of Col. L. E. Casey, has become a joint stock company with a number of leading and wealthy citizens as incorporators. Col. Casey retains a controlling interest and will continue to manage it as successfully as in the past. It has always been one of the best papers in Kentucky.

Two women are candidates for delegates to the republican convention from that monstrosity of States, Wyoming, with a good chance for one to be elected. If she is, it will be the first instance of the kind in the history of the country and ought to bring the blush of shame to the fair cheek of every womanly woman in the land.

It is a pity that the Carlisle movement at Frankfort should be headed by Senator Dave Smith. People in this section haven't very much confidence in Dave and look with suspicion on anything he champions.

The Hon. Ryan, of Louisville, and the Hon. Dawson, of Simpson, quarreled at Lexington over the merits and demerits of Hon. Harvey Myers and fought a few rounds in the Phoenix Hotel. The Louisville slugger was too much for the Simpson county man and Dawson was soon knocked out. Both were arrested and Ryan fined $3 and costs. It is more than probable that both were drunk. A sweet scented pair, to be sure.

The Barbourville Herald is rash enough to predict that George Denny will be governor of Kentucky in 10 years. Bro. Sampson, in the exuberance of his youth and desire, must be excused for talking a little wild. He'll get over that before long and wonder what possessed him to write such stuff. When Denny or any other republican is elected governor of Kentucky, the sun will rise in the west.

FRIENDS of Blaine continue to assert that he will accept the presidential nomination if it is offered and Capt. Gavitt, of Chicago, says he has private assurances from the secretary to that effect.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The election in the Maysville district to choose a successor to Senator Poyntz, made railroad commissioner, has been fixed for the 21.

Their constituents observe with satisfaction that the names of Hons. D. B. Edmiston and Lewis V. Leavell never appear in the list of absentees.

Fatherly suggestions to our legislators, who were once supposed to be our servants, are to be "fully investigated" as "invidious newspaper criticisms." Things have come to a pretty pass when a man can't wallop his own jackass. - Louisville Times.

The Lightning-bugs were downed in the House and the re-districting bill went through with a rush. Little Tomtit Pettit grew very hot in the collar and wanted to impeach the Speaker for his rulings, but he was sat down upon. Now let the Senate adopt the bill and get down to work.

A bill is before the Senate requiring owners of lands, under penalty of $15 fine, to cut the Canada thistles before they go to seed. Any person feeling aggrieved that his neighbor allows thistles to grow on his land may cut or have the thistles cut and charge the negligent neighbor for the labor.

Republican conventions in Tennessee, Connecticut, California and North Dakota gave the usual formal endorsement to Harrison's Administration. Maryland delegates are instructed to vote for the president.

The Michigan democratic convention emphasized its endorsement of Cleveland by instructing the delegates to vote as a unit for his nomination. The platform declares tariff reform the supreme issue of the campaign.

The Wisconsin democratic convention was unanimous for Cleveland. The delegates were requested to use all honorable means to secure his nomination and instructed to vote as a unit on all questions. The platform favors a tariff for revenue only, opposes free silver coinage and denounces the Sherman silver law.

The Barbourville Herald says that the Cumberland Valley Bank elected a new board of directors and a new set of officers before moving into its new building: Dr. D. Stevenson, D. CHURCH AFFAIRS.

Rev. W. E. Arnold will preach at Mt. Xenia Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The mysterious stigmatic affections of Mrs. Mary Stuckenborg, of Louisville, are now being investigated by direction of Bishop McCloskey. The stigmatic manifestations, so far from disappearing, have become even plainer. The wounds, it is said, have opened every Friday for the past 11 months, and have bled freely.

The following speakers will take part in the county meeting of the Christian churches at Mt. Moriah, May 14th: Charlie Powell, J. Q. Montgomery, W. E. Ellis, J. C. FOUND.

On last Friday an old man and little boy were seen plodding this way over the road from New York to this place. Noticeable about them was the old man carrying a very large sack. When asked by a passer-by what that big sack was for, he would only look and smile; never an answer would he give. The little boy was inclined to tell, but a look from the old gent soon stopped him.

Curiosity overcame one of the many people passing along, and following him, they noticed he went to the

Louisville Store,

Dropped his sack on the floor and asked for a chair, all the while holding tightly in his hand a paper, which he would continually look at and smile. One of the salesmen asked him what he wished. His reply was: "Mister, I want all this," at the same time showing one of our

FOUND.—The following message was received from George H. Bruce, Lexington, Tuesday: John Cook, son of S. R. Cook, is here in the hands of the police. If you have an opportunity send his father word to instruct the chief what to do with him.

W. H. MILLER has received from J. Fry Lawrence, of Louisville, president of the Fish and Game Club, 200,000 eggs of the wall-eyed salmon variety to be deposited in the streams of this county. This ought to make pretty good fishing in a year or two.

THE Danville Advocate states that before summer sets in a couple of gentlemen from that city will take unto themselves helpmeets from the booming city of Stanford. We don't mind losing a girl occasionally, but when they are taken in pairs it is time our boys were making a kick.

C. D. POWELL, the new Logan Avenue merchant, has opened out in full blast and is surprising the natives with his low prices. He tells us that in 13 years he sold at Welchburg over $500,000 worth of goods, an average of nearly $40,000 a year, on a beginning with less than $300 worth of stock.

R. A. BURNSIDE, master commissioner of the Garrard circuit court, was here Tuesday advertising the Phillips property for sale. He says the Wade Walker property, also advertised in this paper, will realize over $40,000, which will give him a nice little sum. The office of commissioner pays in Garrard, as sometimes there are as many as 15 to 20 sales made at one time.

THE Kentucky Weather Service reports that more rain fell in April than in the same month for 15 years. The fall was 6.05 inches against an average of 3.75. At this time last year a drought had begun that was not broken until June 14, and the cold weather in May was phenomenal. The frosts of the 5th and 6th were unusually severe and cold weather continued two weeks or more.

LITTLE ANNIE BELLE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Craig, of Millersburg, was bitten by a neighbor's dog this week, which tore her cheek and mouth so badly that she has to be nourished by a tube. The dog had given no symptoms of rabies, but he was ordered to be kept up 10 days, to see whether he is mad or not. This is another argument for a dog tax and muzzles, if necessary. Let the city council act at once.

THE suit of the Knob Lick & McCormack Church turnpike against Mr. Thos. McRoberts for $100 subscription, was decided before Judge Varnon and a jury Tuesday in favor of the pike. Mr. McRoberts put in a counter claim of $250 for damages, alleged to have been sustained by the building of the pike on the line it was. An appeal will be taken if a new trial is refused.

A DISPATCH from Corbin says that Mrs. Chestnut and Mrs. Trosper made a raid on the blind tigers at that place, one armed with a hatchet and the other with a hatchet and razor. They went to Johnson and Well's establishment, where they emptied three barrels of whisky and one cask and one barrel of beer. P. W. Woods' place was next visited, where they emptied several jugs of whisky and a keg of beer. They left a card at each place, on which was written, "We will come again."

DR. J. F. PEYTON has contracted with R. G. Jones and J. A. Wright for a $1,000 cottage on one of his lots in Darst town, between this place and Rowland.

THERE were three building and loan association agents, representing as many companies, in town yesterday, and consequently our citizens got little or no rest. They are getting worse than insurance agents.

WE desire to say to our customers whose accounts are past due that while we have been very lenient in the past, the time has now come when we must have our money. Prompt payments will save costs. Sine & Menefee.

THE Knoxville Branch of the L. & N. handled more cars, loaded and empty, to the number of trains sent out during the month of April than any other division south of the Ohio river. This reflects much credit on Master of Trains Capt. Frank Harris.

PROF. BAGAR's dancing class is progressing nicely and is proving a source of much pleasure to the young people. Each young gentleman has a lady partner and the pleasure consists in accompanying the fair damsels to and from the school as well as tripping the light fantastic.

A FREIGHT car was broken into at Rowland, Wednesday night, and several boxes of canned goods consigned to J. W. Ramsey and others, of this place, were stolen. Other goods were broken into. One of the boxes which contained the goods was found only a short distance from the car on the premises of a prominent citizen, but of course it was left there merely for a blind.

JEFF HALE, who was once not as good a citizen as he might have been, but who has in the last few years lived a fairly quiet life, had his house shot into a few nights ago and barely missed being shot himself. His young son, Bill, happened to be in range of the buckshot and one of them entered his left thigh, producing a painful, but not serious wound. Mr. H. is not certain as to who the guilty parties are, but believes they are friends of his two daughters, whose waywardness caused him to make leave his household. The offense of the rascals who did the shooting is a most serious one and it is hoped that they will be caught up with and made to pay the penalty they so richly deserve. Mr. Hale and his son, for fear of being visited a second time, have left the house and have moved into the Ramsey property on the Hustonville pike.

THE Keeley Institute of Kentucky at Crab Orchard Springs is now in full operation, with patients already undergoing treatment. Col. W. T. Grant and Manager Dr. George C. Webster, of the incorporators, and Dr. J. C. McIlvain, of the Keeley Institute, at Dwight, Ill., were here Wednesday for the purpose of having the articles of incorporation recorded and published. They appear elsewhere in this paper. Dr. Webster has been at the head of the Indiana Institute, at Plainfield, and he tells us that less than 3 per cent. of its patients have returned to drink. Over 60,000 people have been treated in the United States, and a statement shows that all but 5 per cent. have been cured. Col. Grant says that for the present "The Villa" and "Calico Row" alone will be used for the patients and that summer visitors will be taken as usual at the proper time, which will be good news to the numerous lovers of the place. The class of men usually treated at the Institute are gentlemen by birth and their presence need not keep visiting people away. The treatment makes the patients realize their condition at once and the mortification that follows prevents them from being obtrusive or demonstrative.

OLD MR. JOHN MCKEON who used to live at Hustonville, but now is in comfortable quarters at the Soldiers' Home at Cleveland, Ohio, paid his old home a visit a short time ago. The old gentleman had, in his younger days, looked frequently on wine when it was red and as there was a creek between town and his home, he frequently found much trouble in getting to his abiding place. Living near the creek was an old colored woman named Maria Cook, who had many a time helped him to cross and who had in several ways been kind to him. A warm heart beat in Mr. McKen's Irish breast and when he was enjoying the comfort and ease that Uncle Sam has arranged for the Union soldier, he thought of the good old colored woman who perhaps had saved him more than once from a watery grave and decided to reciprocate a few of her many kindnesses by presenting her with money and other things that would add to her pleasure. When he arrived at his old stamping ground the first person he went to see was Maria Cook. He made her a number of presents and besides made arrangements with an undertaker to furnish her with a coffin and shroud at the proper time. He told the old woman about this and she was then in perfect health. A day afterward she began to get sick and in less than a week she was shrouded and placed in the coffin Mr. McK. had bought. Whether there is an ill omen in making these preparations before the time or not is not known, but the colored people of Hustonville think so and they have seemed wrapped in mystery since Aunt Maria's death.

SEE James Frye at Hustonville and F. M. Ware at McKinney before you sell your wool. A. T. Nunnelle.

ATTENTION, LADIES AND GENTS.—Come to our cheap table this week for towels, shirts, shoes, gingham, chaffies, &c., &c. J. S. Hughes.

THE L. & N. will sell round-trip tickets to Louisville on Sunday, May 22, for $2.50, on account of the game of base ball between the Louisvilles and Cincinnati. The train will leave Rowland at 7 o'clock a. m. and pass this place at 7:05, returning after the game.

LITTLE SUSIE, the two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Frank Engleman, fell from the carriage just as she was leaving town Tuesday and a wheel passed over her body. The mother was badly frightened and took the little one to Dr. Brown, who quickly saw that no damage was done the child, save a few slight bruises.

OLD COINS.—Misses Mary and Malinda Pepples have had in their possession nearly 34 years some rare old coins. In the collection are three silver dollars dated 1796, 1804, 1805, which they have presented with their compliments to their nephew, T. C. Ball, who prizes the old relics very highly, as they belonged to his Grand-mother Pepples, who died the 14th of August, 1858, when Tommy was just two months old. An offer of $300 for the coin made in 1804 has been refused.

A DIPLOMATIC CUL DE SAC.

Who is the American Author of the Behring Sea Correspondence?

We wonder who is the responsible author, so far as this government is concerned, of the treaty of arbitration for the settlement of the Behring sea dispute. Whoever the author may be, he has committed a colossal blunder.

Nothing in the future is more certain than that every one of the five points submitted to arbitration by the terms of the treaty would be decided against us. The first four points concern the claim to exclusive jurisdiction over an area of open ocean considerably larger than the Mediterranean sea, a claim preposterous according to all accepted ideas of international law. Does anybody in his senses suppose for an instant that arbitrators named by France, Italy and Sweden will hold that Behring sea is a closed sea subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States? The fifth point is in regard to our property rights in the seals themselves and our right to claim the animals wherever in the watery waste they may be found. Does any sane person suppose for an instant that an international tribunal will decide for our convenience that the Alaska fur seals are not fere nature? And yet unless one or the other of these improbable, nay, impossible decisions is rendered, the whole negotiation, the treaty and the arbitration will count for nothing toward the main object in view, namely, the protection of the seals.—New York Sun.

What This Congress Will Save.

Mr. Dockery, of Missouri, states that in the two sessions of the present congress the appropriations will be reduced about $100,000,000.

This general statement must be taken on the faith of Mr. Dockery's reputation for accuracy, which is very high. It seems to be certain, however, that aside from the river and harbor bill there will be a saving this year of more than $30,000,000, and it is expected that at least $1,000,000 will be saved on the river and harbor bill.

The task of saving money after the legislation of the last congress was very difficult. The permanent appropriations had been increased for the purpose of preventing retrenchment. If the Democratic majority succeeds, therefore, in cutting down appropriations in the first session, outside of the river and harbor bill, by $30,000,000, it is a great triumph so far as it goes. It is a pity that the cutting should not go further and that more money should not be saved in the annual logrolling scheme.—New York World.

Jingo Diplomacy "Comes High."

There may be some question as to the net results of our ultimatum to Chili, but there is no doubt of the cost of that bit of jingo diplomacy. Indications point to the speedy collapse of the bureau of American republics, which was started in Washington as an annex to reciprocity. As there is very little reciprocity outside of the Pan-American article, and as that has taken flight early in its career on account of the domineering tone of the great American republic, the dream of a continental zollverein appears to be passing away with the winter snows.—Philadelphia Record.

Colored Voters Know Their Friends.

A call has been issued, with many signatures, for a conference of representative Afro-American Democrats of the United States in Chicago June 21, to endorse the nominees of the national Democratic convention for president and vice-president and to map out a line of aggressive campaigning.—New York Times.

Nomination Means Election.

Just at present the indications are that the great contest in the Chicago convention will be for second place. There are symptoms of an unusual clamor for the privilege of riding behind. There could be no better sign than that there is no expectation of anybody being thrown.—St. Louis Republic.

Will Platt Follow Suit?

President Harrison has given Mr. Platt some bones for New York, as he stood on the White House porch, but he never gave him a bone that he did not accompany the act of benevolence with a kick. Even dogs resent that sort of treatment.—New York Advertiser.

A Slight Difference of $1,000,000.

The statement that it will take $2,000,000 instead of $1,000,000 to complete the Prater census is a very modest one. A great many people believe that no amount of money would make that census complete.—New York World.

That Would Give Her Hysterics.

There is a young lady in Maine who has never laughed, and who is unmoved by the most comical productions. Why don't they try her with a Republican platform?—Louisville Courier-Journal.

And Matthew Likes Turkey.

It will be observed that the president is still serving choice slices of turkey to Mr. Quay, of Pennsylvania, and that the other fellows are getting only the buzzard.—Boston Herald.

Oh, No, of Course Not.

Why this sudden activity of Attorney General Miller against the trusts? Of course it is not related in any way to the election next November.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

FREE CRAYON PORTRAITS & FRAMES

To all our Subscribers for 1892.

We, the publishers of "North American Homes," in order to increase the circulation of our journal throughout the United States and Canada, will spend this year over one hundred thousand dollars among our new subscribers in the form of an artistic Crayon Portrait and a handsome frame (as per cut below), to be made free of charge for every new subscriber to "North American Homes." Our family journal is a monthly publication consisting of 16 pages, filled with the best literature of the day, by some of the best authors, and is worthy of the great expense we are doing for it. Eight years ago the New York World had only about 15,000 daily circulation; to-day it has over 500,000. This was obtained by judicious advertisement and a lavish expenditure of money. What the proprietor of the N. Y. World has accomplished we feel confident of doing ourselves. We have a large capital to draw upon, and the handsome premium we are giving you will certainly give us the largest circulation of any paper in the world. The money we are spending now among our subscribers will soon come back to us in increased circulation and advertisements. The Crayon Portrait we will have made for you will be executed by the largest association of artists in this city. Their work is among the finest made, and we guarantee you an artistic Portrait and a perfect likeness to the original. There is nothing more useful as well as ornamental than a handsome framed Crayon Portrait of yourself or any member of your family; therefore this is a chance in a lifetime to get one already framed and ready to hang in your parlor absolutely free of charge.

READ THE FOLLOWING GRAND 30 DAYS' OFFER:

Send us $1.50, price for one year subscription to "North American Homes," and send us also a photograph, tintype or daguerotype of yourself or any member of your family, living or dead, and we will make you from same an artistic half life size Crayon Portrait, and put the Portrait in a good substantial gilt or bronze frame of 2 inch moulding absolutely free of charge; will also furnish you a genuine French glass, boxing and packing same free of expense. Cut this out and send it with your photograph at once, also your subscription, which you can remit by Draft, P. O. Money Order, Express Money Order, or Postal Note, made payable to —Caroline Brown, an aged and respected colored woman, died unexpectedly at Mrs. Dollie Napier's at 10 o'clock last Saturday morning. She did not take her bed till late Friday evening. Dr.

McRoberts pronounced her ailment to be heart disease.

—Misses Dollie Whipp, Belle Port-
man, Amanda Stone, Lucy Bowman, Lizzie Phillips and Dollie Cowden, all chaperoned by Mrs. Belle Stone, went to Hustonville Wednesday. The object of most of the young ladies and misses was to make a raid on the spring bonnets of our neighboring town. Your correspondent, however, is assured by the chaperone of the party that Miss Belle P., availing herself of leap year privileges, goes to view the town as a possible future home, as she has an eye on a handsome Lincoln bachelor, now stationed here, while Miss Dollie W. claims that her object was to see her "feller."

—Jailer Jesse Brown arrested Sher-Price, of this vicinity, last Sunday evening, on a bench warrant on two indictments from the Pulaski circuit court for forgery of two checks on F. P. Combest.
The prisoner was lodged in jail and would have been taken Monday to Somerset, but his brother, "Em" Price, presented for Jailer Brown to hold on till he could procure bail. The jailer, being of a charitable nature, consented. In the meantime, Jess had information from James B. Wheeler, in jail for selling whisky, that the bail was intended to be a saw and other necessary tools, to be conveyed to the prisoner at 12 o'clock at night. Jess was on hand at the time appointed and found Em. Price at the jail, but no implements in sight. He,
with his brother, entered the jail and fastened the prisoner in a cell. If the jailer had been behind time there is a probability that your reporter could have truthfully reported an escape from jail.

hog from his lair.

—Your Liberty scribe after, catching so many squirts, should turn his attention to the Rockcastle style of ground hog hunting with terrapins, as mentioned in our letter of last Friday.

—We are under obligations to Messrs.
John Welch and J. M. Williams for courtesies extended the writer while in Louisville Monday last. M. C. Miller, Jr., is working at the depot here while the agent is taking a rest. Mr. Charles Vanarsdall, of Parksville, for some time night operator at this place, has accepted the agency at Woodbine. Mrs. Belle Burnside paid Lancaster a visit Wednesday. Mrs. Sarah Welsh is visiting in Middlesboro and will remain there during the summer. Mr. Abe Adams and Miss S. Livesay were married last Thursday week. Mr. Huggins, the printer, has returned from the Vowels residence.

—We understand our friend, D. C.
Poynter, while in Stanford, a few days since, denied the authenticity of our report of the ground-hog hunt in which he took a prominent part a few days since. We suppose Dave thought the banks would refuse to loan him money
if they understood he had an epicurean taste for ground-hog and greens. After his return from Stanford he bought of Logan Thompson his fine bred tar'pin,
"Old Lige" and is now training with it his young blue shell, "Tom," and will shortly have a "team" which he will put in the "run" against any racers of the same breed in the mountains.

do a general manufacturing business in the line of electrical and other instru-

HOW HE GOT EVEN.

He Paid for the Use of a Bathtub and a
Bokhara Rug.

The comedian, Frank Daniels, was a Boston boy and recently played an engagement in his native city. As his manager, Frank Murray, was starting
for Boston about a week prior to Daniels'
opening there, he asked the comedian at
what hotel he intended to stop during
the week.

"I believe I'll go to the Barker House,"
said Daniels. "For years I used to pass
that hotel many times daily, but though
I have lived in every hotel in Boston,
strange to say I have never yet tried the Barker. I wish you would drop in there
and ask them to reserve a nice apartment for me." On reaching Boston
Murray attended to the matter and a few days later Daniels was duly installed
in luxurious quarters. "How do you
like your rooms?" asked Murray the next
day. "They couldn't be improved upon,"
said Daniels. "I tell you the Barker
House is the place; you can't beat it."

That afternoon Daniels stepped up to the hotel desk for his key. The clerk
inquired politely: "How are your quarters, Mr. Daniels? Everything satisfactory, I hope." "Very nice," replied Daniels: "as a Bostonian I am proud to know that the Hub is fully abreast of
the times in the matter of hotels, as well
as in other respects. By the way, what are you charging for my apartment?"
"Ten dollars per day," replied the clerk
blandly. "Ten dollars per day?" exclaimed Daniels. "Isn't that pretty steep?" "Not at all," answered the clerk; "just look how those rooms are furnished. There's nothing finer in the Vanderbilt mansions. Why, that bathtub is solid porcelain and cost $500; the Bokhara rug beside your bed cost $225,
and the entire furnishings are on a similar scale. We couldn't have spent more money on the rooms if we had tried."

"Well, I'm glad you didn't try," remarked Daniels as he departed with his
key. The next morning Frank Murray,
having some business with his star, inquired for him at the desk, and was informed that Daniels was still in his rooms.

He got the number and went up unannounced. Rapping on the door, he received no answer; he rapped again,
but still no reply. Turning the knob,
he found the door unlocked and walked
in, expecting to find Daniels still in bed.
To his surprise the rooms were apparently deserted. He was about to retire
when, happening to glance into the bathroom, to his astonishment he saw
the comedian sound asleep in the porcelain bathtub, carefully covered with the Bokhara rug. His explanation of surprise awoke Daniels, who sat up and
gazed sleepily at the intruder. "Great Scott! Frank," shouted Murray, "what
in thunder are you doing in that bathtub? What's the matter with the bed?"
"Well," replied the comedian, "they are
charging me ten dollars a day for this porcelain bathtub and Bokhara rug, and
this is the only way I know to get even."

—Considerable excitement prevails at Corbin on account of Mrs. Chestnut and Mrs. Trosper going into the blind tigers there and bursting open the whisky barrels and beer boxes Monday. The ladies used no more force than was necessary to accomplish their design and say they are ready to be tried for anything they have done unlawful. While their action may not be exactly lawful, the good people of the county are ready to support them in what they did, and say that before a man can ask the protection of our laws he must become a law-abiding citizen himself and then his property shall be protected. These parties have been selling liquor at Corbin and as it is on the county line, the officers have a hard time getting hold of them. There has been more trouble there than in all the rest of the county in the last six months.

—Ex-County Judge J. F. Snyder died
at his home near Williamsburg Tuesday, May 3, at 12 o'clock a. m. Judge Snyder had been very feeble for several months and gradually grew worse, until death relieved him of his pain. He was born January 12, 1835, and started out in life
as a farmer; was elected county judge about 20 years ago; read law during the time and has since that time devoted part of his time to the practice, but never gave up his favorite vocation, farming.
He became a member of the Baptist church about two years ago and has since that time lived an exemplary Christian life. He leaves a wife and nine children to mourn his loss. His funeral services were conducted by Rev. Tye at the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and from thence the remains were taken to the new cemetery and buried.

a mule and horse colt at the same time.

through the Central depot in Cincinnati
with a child nearly dead with small-pox.

HOW HE GOT EVEN.

He Paid for the Use of a Bathtub and a
Bokhara Rug.

The comedian, Frank Daniels, was a Boston boy and recently played an engagement in his native city. As his
manager, Frank Murray, was starting
for Boston about a week prior to Daniels'
opening there, he asked the comedian at
what hotel he intended to stop during
the week.

"I believe I'll go to the Barker House,"
said Daniels. "For years I used to pass
that hotel many times daily, but though
I have lived in every hotel in Boston,
strange to say I have never yet tried the Barker. I wish you would drop in there
and ask them to reserve a nice apartment for me." On reaching Boston
Murray attended to the matter and a few
days later Daniels was duly installed
in luxurious quarters. "How do you
like your rooms?" asked Murray the next
day. "They couldn't be improved upon,"
said Daniels. "I tell you the Barker
House is the place; you can't beat it."

That afternoon Daniels stepped up to
the hotel desk for his key. The clerk
inquired politely: "How are your quarters, Mr. Daniels? Everything satisfactory, I hope." "Very nice," replied
Daniels: "as a Bostonian I am proud to know that the Hub is fully abreast of
the times in the matter of hotels, as well
as in other respects. By the way, what
are you charging for my apartment?"
"Ten dollars per day," replied the clerk
blandly. "Ten dollars per day?" exclaimed Daniels. "Isn't that pretty
steep?" "Not at all," answered the
clerk; "just look how those rooms are furnished. There's nothing finer in the Vanderbilt mansions. Why, that bath-
tub is solid porcelain and cost $500; the Bokhara rug beside your bed cost $225,
and the entire furnishings are on a similar scale. We couldn't have spent more
money on the rooms if we had tried."

"Well, I'm glad you didn't try," remarked Daniels as he departed with his
key. The next morning Frank Murray,
having some business with his star, inquired for him at the desk, and was informed that Daniels was still in his
rooms.

He got the number and went up unannounced. Rapping on the door, he
received no answer; he rapped again,
but still no reply. Turning the knob,
he found the door unlocked and walked
in, expecting to find Daniels still in bed.
To his surprise the rooms were apparently deserted. He was about to retire
when, happening to glance into the
bathroom, to his astonishment he saw
the comedian sound asleep in the porce-
lain bathtub, carefully covered with the Bokhara rug. His explanation of surprise awoke Daniels, who sat up and
gazed sleepily at the intruder. "Great Scott! Frank," shouted Murray, "what
in thunder are you doing in that bath-
tub? What's the matter with the bed?"
"Well," replied the comedian, "they are
charging me ten dollars a day for this
porcelain bathtub and Bokhara rug, and
this is the only way I know to get even."
